Murri Court/ cultural mediation

- You can ask the judge to send you to the Murri Court/cultural mediation.
- This is a court for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples where Elders, respected people and the community justice group can help you change things in your life and stop breaking the law.
- Might include counselling, education and training, going to a men's or women's group, helping you to stop drinking alcohol or taking drugs, or finding somewhere to live.
- If you follow the rules, this will help when the judge gives you your sentence.
